Ken Knight, born in Sydney in 1956, is a celebrated Australian plein air oil painter and a leading exponent of contemporary Impressionism, carrying forward the classic artistic lineage of French Impressionism. Throughout his life, he has remained devoted to painting en plein air, excelling in impasto oil techniques that build rich, tactile textures on the canvas. With bright, animated colors, he precisely captures the ever-changing interplay of light and shadow in nature. His works often focus on the Australian coastline and vast wilderness, while he has also travelled the globe to depict landscapes and scenery from all corners of the world. Marked by concise, minimalist compositions and a warm, healing atmosphere, his art is highly esteemed by the art community, and many of his masterpieces are held in the collections of professional art institutions and discerning private collectors both at home and abroad.

In May this year, Ken Knight travelled to Yangshuo, Guangxi, immersing himself in outdoor painting along the Yulong River and the Li River, two renowned scenic wonders. Spending over a month there, he created nearly three hundred landscape paintings. From this vast body of plein air work, he sifted through and selected the very best, ultimately deciding on 33 exquisite oil paintings to be presented at this joint art exhibition.
